Special Education --

Explains Cooperative Program

By ANNE RODGER

The total cost of special education for handicapped children is not considerably more than the cost to educate normal children, it was learned last week at the meeting of the Bremen Council for the Handicapped in Central school, Tinley Park.

The speaker was Lewis Martin, director of special education in the west suburban area, who explained how their cooperative program between school districts operates.

The first such program to be established in Illinois, it has received recognition of the state. The last session of the Illinois Legislature has made possible the setting up of inter-district legal agreements for the operation of such facilities.

The second cooperative program to be established for handicapped children is in Proviso township.

Administrative heads of schools in districts of this area are presently studying the possibility of establishing a similar program. The schools interested in participating are Tinley Park, Country Club Hills, Palos Heights, Forest Ridge, Midlothian, Markham, and Arbor Park.

Present at the meeting were Superintendent T. R. Birkhead, and Earl V. Heeden, president of the board of education of Bremen Community High School, besides members of school boards of the foregoing school districts, and other interested persons. In the established programs, the school superintendents serve as an advisory board and pass on reports and recommendations made by the director.

The programs differ somewhat in operation in that the western suburbs, where the LaGrange High School serves as the administrative district, the school districts participating support the administrative operation of the program. This year, a psychologist has been added.

The cost to each school district is based on the number of pupils in average daily attendance. Each district submits to the administrative district the same information on average daily attendance that it submits for its state aid claim. These figures are added and used as the divisor to determine the per pupil cost of the administration of the special education program. Each district pays its pro rata share of this cost.

In the Proviso program a special education department has been established and each district contributes money to a special fund each year. All of the equipment used in the special education classes belongs to the department rather than a school district as in the LaGrange program.

In explaining the costs of special education classes, Martin stated that because the state pays $3,000 towards the operation of the class for each professional employee, the cost is greatly reduced to school districts. In addition, the district of residence of a handicapped child receives state aid for the pupil regardless of which district he attends school.

In the case of the educable mentally handicapped, Martin stated, the cost is less than for a regular classroom. However, a special education class for the deaf is more costly because it is limited to seven pupils and more expensive equipment is required for use in the program.

Martin, who is an expert in the field of special education and has had many articles published on the subject, emphasized that by educating the handicapped it cuts the cost of taxes by making them useful citizens. He is a staunch supporter of these programs and believes all children should be given an opportunity to receive the best education they are capable of absorbing.

In the LaGrange district there are 11 classes for the mentally handicapped, eight for educable and three for trainable. The students are divided into three groups according to age, the first group being ages 6 and 7, second group 8 and 9, and the third group in an intermediate class, also junior and senior high school classes.

If schools can obtain mentally handicapped youngsters as kindergarten pupils, more can be accomplished toward educating them to take their place in society. Being in a special class with other youngsters, similarly handicapped, is a help.

Garbage Disposal --

Set Rate for Service in Orland

The Village of Orland Park will agree to a proposal by the garbage disposal company servicing the village, that a charge of $1 per home per month be paid for garbage disposal, rather than the present flat rate because of the increased number of homes. There are now 390 homes in the village. This was agreed upon by trustees at the board meeting Monday.

The police department expressed appreciation to the Orland Park Woman's club for the donation of $50. It is planned to use the money to purchase equipment for the department.

It was learned at the meeting that the state highway department will install stop signs at 147th, 149th, and 151st on West ave.

Bretland A. Blair, trustee, proposed that a sign for the village hall be designed.

An amount of $649 in motor fuel tax receipts for November was collected, it was reported.

A catch basin, it was decided, will be installed at 143rd and Union ave., to handle water which collects at that point.

Lights have been installed by the Wabash railroad at the crossing.

The board also voted to modify its sign ordinance to permit installation of roof signs limiting the height of such signs to six feet.

An ordinance creating the office of health commissioner was also adopted. Dr. Myrven A. Lane, who has been serving as village health officer, was appointed health commissioner to April 30, 1959. A requirement of the ordinance is that the health commissioner must be a licensed physician. He will also furnish advice to the village on matters pertaining to public health and sanitation.

The board also approved revision of the general land plan of Orland Hills Development south of 151st st.

Will Take Bids Soon on Orland Sewage Plant

The Chicago sanitary district expects to advertise for bids for a sewage treatment plant for Orland Park by the end of December. Village Attorney Raymond Pieper reported to the Orland council at its regular meeting Monday night.

Pieper had spent an hour with district engineers discussing the plans for Orland Park and was informed that if the bids were within the estimate it was likely that a contract would be awarded by mid February and work begun when weather permits.

The district now has $150,000 earmarked for the Orland program and expects to appropriate an additional $250,000 next year to finish the job.

According to information given by the engineers, a complete settling and trickling filter plant will be erected at 148th st. near the Wabash tracks. The effluent will run into a ditch and under the tracks and after a short distance turn north. The initial plant will serve 8,000 persons. This is expected to be sufficient until 1962 or 1963. The second phase of the program calls for doubling the capacity so that it will serve a maximum of 16,000 persons. Eventually the plant will be displaced by large interceptor sewers that will carry the sewage into large disposal centers.

The only part of the plant that will show above ground will be the pump house, Pieper was told.

The imminence of starting work on such a program will give Orland Park officials a new job—planning a sewer system for the village.

The proposed sewage plant will take care of the Orland Park population as well as that of new subdivisions now in the planning stage, it was stated.

Orland Park Hills developers have a lagoon system in use for the treatment of sewage in that area. Chicago sanitary district engineers told Pieper that the lagoon system was very efficient and the one at Orland Park was doing an excellent job. It will be dispensed with, however, when the new plant is put in use.

Miracle of 143rd St.-New Lights At Rail Crossing

After years of endeavor by the Orland Park village board which has included scores of telephone calls, reams of correspondence, charges and counter charges and hours of conferring with railroad, state and county officials, new and more efficient lights have been installed by the Wabash railroad on the 143rd street crossing in Orland Park.

Because the Wabash has but a single mainline track running thru Orland Park now, the railroad demurred at installing safety gates at the crossing and was sustained in this by the Illinois commerce commission.

It was finally agreed, however, that the flasher signals which were in place at the crossing were inadequate and difficult to see, especially when the sun was shining.

The new signals are on cantilever arms and there are enough light, to make them visible to persons approaching the crossing from either east or west.

The work was completed this week.

REOPEN REGISTRATION

Registration of voters opened in the village of Orland Park at the village hall Nov. 18, and will continue until Jan. 20, 1959.

Persons wishing to register in the county office, may do so on any Tuesday or Saturday in room 230, County building, 118 N. Clark st., Chicago.

Churches Plan Special Services — Families Gather to Celebrate

A happy Thanksgiving Day is wished for all. For most it will be a day of joyful reunion with loved ones and a bountiful table, reminding all how thankful they should be to live in the "land of plenty".

While most people tend to dwell over misfortunes, if they were to count their blessings the total on the ledger side of thankfulness would greatly outnumber the corresponding hardships, it has been pointed out by philosophers.

The Pilgrims really underwent hardships, suffering from cold, hunger, and lurking death in the unknown wilderness of a strange land.

In the fall of 1621, however, they gathered a good harvest and looked forward to the coming winter with hope and courage.

Governor William Bradford, grateful to God for the good fortune of the colony, set aside a day for thanksgiving and prayer. A great feast was held, to which friendly Indians were invited.

Similar celebrations had been known to the Pilgrims in Europe, but this was the first "thanksgiving day" in this country. Slowly the idea spread thruout the other colonies.

This is one of the few holidays that has remained fairly constant, altho the community celebration has been supplanted by the family get-together. The community touch, however, is still preserved thru church services. Special Thanksgiving services are conducted by most churches in the area.

Thanksgiving is primarily a day for families and friends and is usually celebrated with feasting and entertainment. Years ago Thanksgiving marked the close of the football season and most of the big games between traditional rivals were played on that day.

There are still a few football games played on Thanksgiving but now the season does not end until the bowl encounters on New Year's day. Thanksgiving, tho, is looked upon by most people as the dividing line between fall and winter, altho winter does not officially arrive until around Dec. 21.

Some of the coldest weather, the deepest snows have arrived at Thanksgiving time.

Merchants have used Thanksgiving for years as the beginning of the Christmas shopping season. The Saturday following Thanksgiving is usually given over to parades to mark the start of Yule trade but this year the Christmas shopping season was launched before Thanksgiving.

Safety experts, cognizant of the dangers of the holiday—that will be a long one for some people—urge those traveling by automobile to use care and the same admonition is given those who stay at home.

The Dominion of Canada celebrates Thanksgiving Day in much the same way as the United States. The Governor-General proclaims the holiday each year as a harvest festival. The date of the Canadian Thanksgiving Day varies. Generally it is celebrated on the last Monday in October. Thanksgiving Day is not strictly a legal holiday, but depends each year on the government proclamation.

Orland Pastor At Meeting of Legion Chaplains

The Rev. R. L. Plastow, pastor of the Orland Park Methodist church, attended the annual national conference of department chaplains of the American Legion, held in the national headquarters in Minneapolis, Minn.

high school districts have had to do the same thing and so have grade school districts in the area.

Approval of the bonds is asked by the board as a matter of necessity. Lincoln-Way's enrollment is growing at such a pace that it already exceeds the total anticipated by 1960. When the school opened in 1954 it was believed that the total enrollment in 1960 would be 600. This was based on projections by experts in such matters.

With the extension of the east wing last year the school can accommodate about 700 by crowding, it was said. There are almost 700 students in the school now and next September, Supt. A. Hunter Chapman said, it was expected that the number would reach 750. In another decade the Lincoln-Way enrollment will be around 2,000 or more, the experts say.

To finance the $500,000 bond issue for approval Dec. 20 the board expects taxes will increase around six cents, three mills for 1959, making the total for interest and principal payments 45 cents, one mill per $100 equalized assessed valuation. The present rate is 38 cents, eight mills. By 1960 the board expects to have the bonded debt and the interest figure reduced to a point where the 38 point, eight cents will suffice.

Thanksgiving Service The Tinley Park Church of the Nazarene will hold a special Thanksgiving Day service at 10:30 a.m. Thursday. Communion will be served.

THE REV. MR. PLASTOW, chairman of a committee to evaluate needs on a publicity program on the "Back to God" movement within the organization.

The committee will also endeavor to enlist other clergy veterans to join the American Legion.

Represented at the conference were American Legion chaplains from the 56 departments in the United States, Canada, and other countries.

Will Fine Owners If Dogs Caught Running Loose

Because of the many complaints being received by village officials on dogs running loose, the village of Orland Park warns owners of dogs they will be issued tickets and have to pay a fine when their pets are found running loose on village streets.

icapped, releases feelings of inferiority experienced when mingling solely with normal children.

One of the major goals in educating the handicapped, said Martin, is to give them a feeling of worthiness.

The LaGrange district cooperative program was started in 1956. The first year a class for the partially sighted and one for EMH children were established. Enrolled in the program now are about 200 students in 17 classes, with a full time psychologist and physical therapist.

There are 11 blind children enrolled. These children spend 50 per cent of their school hours in regular classes. During the remainder of the time in special classes, the students learn to use the typewriter and study Braille. By the time they have reached eighth grade they have become very proficient. In high school they are in regular classrooms and compete with other students on their own level.

In the classes for the deaf, different techniques are used to get thru to these youngsters. Ear phones and amplifying equipment are used. On the other hand, the partially deaf with a proper hearing aid can do most of the work in a regular class. The two are kept apart because the deaf of necessity but learn sign language, a practice which is not encouraged among the partially deaf.

The LaGrange district has been able to keep up with the need for teachers of special education by encouraging regular teachers to take additional training to qualify as teachers of special education.

The advancement being made in educating the handicapped is gratifying. The next step being studied by La Grange is the establishing of a workshop for the handicapped.

Hedges Clinic At Frankfort To Give Free Diabetic Tests

In observance of national diabetes week, set aside to center public attention on that disease which strikes so many, the Hedges Clinic of Frankfort is giving free tests for this ailment on Friday and Saturday of this week from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

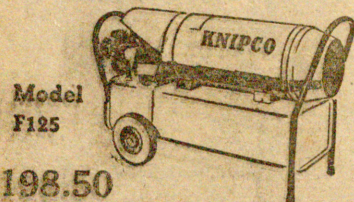

Persons from the area who come to the clinic for these free tests are to bring a bottle containing a specimen of urine.

There are many persons, it was pointed out, who may have diabetes but are unaware of it. According to figures for the Chicago area it is estimated there are at least 30,000 persons, including children, who fall into this category.

THE POET

Three Carl Sandburg High school students have entered the Future Engineers of America mathematics contest to be held at Evanston on Friday, Nov. 28.

Sophomores John Kunz and Judy Ware of Palos Heights and Charles Kallstrom of Palos Park have entered two divisions of the tournament; mathematics power tests and the brain teaser and math contest.

Since entering early this month, the students have been preparing for the event by working exercises provided in self-study kits. All three are members of an accelerated class in plane and solid geometry, instituted at Sandburg for the first time this year.

Prizes will be awarded to winners on the basis of the spot judging. Industry cooperates with the event by sending actual problems solved by its engineers. Scholarships and job offering may be made as a result of a student making a fine showing at such a tournament.

Urge People Donate Early to Seal Drive

New Lenox, Frankfort and Mokena chairmen of the 1958 Christmas Seal sales campaign urge the people to get their contributions in early.

Letters containing sheets of seals have been sent out to some 600,000 persons in Will County. Recipients are asked to send in their contributions as soon as possible.

The Christmas Seal sale is national but is conducted on local levels. In Will County it is the Will County Tuberculosis Association that is in charge.

According to George A. Shepley, the 1958 Seal Sale county chairman, $42,000 is needed to carry on the work of the county tuberculosis association for the coming year. A portion of the money goes to the national organization for research.

Tuberculosis is still a stubborn and killing disease but thanks to the research made possible thru the Seal Sale it is the hope of medical scientists that in time it can be eliminated.

That TB can strike anyone at anytime has been dramatically shown to baseball fans recently when the story broke that Red Schoendienst, spark plug of the Milwaukee Braves, has tuberculosis. He will not be able to play ball next season but attending physicians predicted that he would make complete recovery from TB.

Seal Sale chairmen in this area are: John Oster, superintendent of the New Lenox village schools; Burton Breidert, of Frankfort and Ralph Thoresen of Mokena. Both are merchants.

Solicit Stronger Parent Support For Cub Scouting

Before a boy is accepted in Cub Scouts parents must sign a form that they will take part in Cub Scouting activities with him, by attending monthly pack meetings regularly and by taking part in other den and pack activities.

There are approximately 60 boys enrolled in the Mokena Cub Scout program, but unfortunately not enough parents attend the pack meetings. It is extremely difficult for leaders, committee members, and den mothers to handle that number of small boys and still maintain order at the meetings.

The next pack meeting will be held Dec. 5, at 7:30 p.m.

A plan is being studied to promote better committee-parent relationship, in order to obtain more parent interest in the program.

At a recent meeting of committee members and den mothers this was set as one of the goals. To foster closer parent participation, at the next pack meeting Cub Scouts will sit by dens on one side and their parents on the other side. It may be made mandatory that at least one parent of a Cub Scout attend these meetings.

Minnie Martin Dies Suddenly; Rites Monday

Mrs. Minnie Martin, 62, who has been suffering from hyper tension for the past several years, died suddenly at her home on First st., Mokena last Thursday afternoon.

She was greeting callers when she was stricken and collapsed; seconds later she was dead.

She was born Oct. 1, 1896 at Spencer, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Lange. When she was a small child the family moved to Mokena. In 1912 she was married to John Martin. Martin had operated a store in Mokena and when it burned he decided to go to Wibaux, Mont. and take up a claim.

It was then the couple wed. They lived in Montana about 18 years and then returned to Mokena where they have resided since.

Bettenhausen; Mechanic at Nine! Hunting Season on Full Blast

Tony Hated Farming and All Its Chores-But Today He Loves It

The loudspeaker at the Indianapolis Speedway has crackled out the name of Tony Bettenhausen for many Memorial Day feature 500 races. Who is this driver, dubbed by the Sports Illustrated, the "Old Tiger," after winning his second National Big Car Championship.

One must forget the hurly-burly, the loud roar of the auto track, the screeching tires; at the moment, if they want to meet and begin to know one of the greatest auto drivers of our day.

Christened Melvin Eugene

tually, Tony, is some sort of prodigy—child prodigy.

The spreading farm at 171st st. and 80th ave., Tinley Park was the cradle and is now the home-stead of the race driver. East on 171st is the home and shop of brother Clarence Bettenhausen—scene of some of the acts of Tony.

Brother Clarence, in the excavating business, had many trucks and large earth moving machinery. Tony, at the ripe age of nine, was an awed guest at the normal repair sessions held for all of man's machines. Back again . . . back a gain . . . back again . . . when he could escape the glance of mother and the corn hoe. The boy's father had died much earlier.

Mother Bettenhausen had an Overland setting in the yard. Tony, age 9, while mother was attending another of the nine children, shoved the Overland into the garage and tore down the engine. Mother walked in . . . "What are you doin' boy!"

What was he doing? Pieces lay in stacks and rather unkempt around the floor of the garage. "I'm tearing down the engine," was the little boy's reply. How will you get it back together? He did it properly. He put the engine back together and did everything but set the timing.

I dread cows, horses and I hated farming as much as I love it today," Tony grinned. Mrs. Bettenhausen added, "That's because he is the boss!"

"Mink the cows—curry 16 horses and then run the corn cultivator. Why, I looked so many corn cobs in the eye-bell that I was dizzy," remembered Tony. The horses didn't make any noise thru the field. The roar of the combustion engine was already in his ears. Racing was a real interest.

Then . . . at 10 years of age . . . the kid rode to Hammond, Indiana and back, on his bicycle, to see an auto race at the old Robie Speedway. The speedway was razed in 1936. He never forgot the race. Someday he was destined to flash down the straightaway, career around the turn and dash into the winners circle.

At 18 he was working for the Ford Motor Company. Building new Fords in the winters of 34, 35, 36.

Marriage came to Tony, at 29—spring of 1937, when he and Valerie Rice were wed, but by June of the same year the Bettenhausens were separated.

Thirteen days after the separation Tony bought a race car. He purchased the car from the late Wally Zale, who was killed in an auto crash at Oak Forest. Emile Andres suggested Tony buy this car. Andres of Tinley Park was quite a race driver in his own right.

Tony's curtain raiser was a motorcycle powered, two-cylinder air-cooled, Midget auto racer. This vehicle cost a total of $600.

As he did with the Overland, 20-year old Tony, tore down his purchase, but could not put this one back together. So . . . he hired Ted Duncan—for Wally Zale. They agreed to finish out the racing season together.

One hundred and seventy-first st. became the Bettenhausen Speedway. No, the police didn't get him.

Duncan also drove Tony's first car. Tony was 20 and 21 was the minimum age limit for any driver.

Everyone laughed at the idea that he would be a race driver. Tony was looking at the farm and hating it more every day. He had no more desire to stare down the corn rows from a perch atop the cultivator. Horses were fine, but they didn't make noise and currying was a job—but not for Tony.

On Sept. 19, 1937, Tony and Ted Duncan left for Detroit.

Tony had turned 21 on Sept. 12. At Detroit—Duncan led for 39 of the 40 laps and spun out on the final lap. On to Freeport, Long Island and the exact same thing happened. Tony came home.

He came home with his mind made up to drive himself. Certainly, he could do no worse than lose. Discouraged—no! Ready, willing, and certainly sure that he was able—Tony got set for 1938.

NEXT WEEK! THE BLOND FLIPPER.

Hunting Season on Full Blast

The hunting season is on full blast.

The pheasant season, which opened Nov. 11 will close the 30th.

The quail season opened Nov. 15 and runs thru Dec. 24. Eight quail may be taken daily.

The rabbit season opened Nov. 22 and runs thru Jan. 20.

It may be news to some that there is a limit on rabbits, five daily.

The season is open now on ducks and geese and the recent cold snap in the north has been sending some big flocks south. Several flights of geese have been seen, some of them rather low.

Shooting hours are from sunrise to sunset. Hunters should remember that before they invade any land permission must be obtained first from the owner.

There is no closed season on crows but the hunter must be smarter than the bird and must also have permission from the landowner before entering fields and woods.

TONY—When he began his racing career in 1938.

Browsing Through The Cold Stove League

The feature story on Tony Bettenhausen will run for at least eight weeks in the Semmler Press. The story is exclusive—containing the beginning and the ending. You will not want to miss a single issue. Tony plans to drive until the reflexes go. "I've no thought of retiring at the present time," Bettenhausen reported.

Honors continue to pour in for Bremen fullback Dennis Tatum. Dennis was selected as the fullback on the second All-Suburban team, published by the Daily News Last Week. The All-State selections should be out by next week.

Pat Ford, highest scorer in the SW Suburban league basketball last season, has won a position on the junior varsity at Carbondale, Illinois.

Basketball officiating has changed somewhat in the last few years. You will note the increase of fouls in the normal game. To this writer, it appears that the men in the striped shirts are much more careful—maybe to the point of over-care these days. Exciting rebounding is far less evident in our high school basketball. No, not a request for a first and ten, but a chance to move. However, the arbiters could be very tough on the coach who is forever off the bench and debating about various decisions!

More light has been shed on the probable fortunes of a few SW Suburban high school roundball teams. Coach Bill Brown in his early season assertion was correct. Bremen showed the lack of experience in its win over a fair Argo team. However, Brown's boys just may improve enough to give Rich the fits. Look for the Rich Rockets to win the varsity basketball title this winter. At this point no one team in the conference is strong enough to defeat them—even on last year's record. You know, Rich returns the starting five of last season on opening night in December.

The grapevine reports Luke Smith, center on the 1957-58 Bremen team, has won a berth on the University of Illinois frosh team. Smith stands about 6' 5".

Winter sports may be slow in coming, but we ought to engage in them. Such things as the slides at Palos, ice skating in various towns, etc. should be of real interest to the entire family. Much time is spent watching. Much enjoyable time could be spent participating and winter is an excellent time for family fun in sport.

Coach Joe Kruzick has a problem at Lincoln-Way. Should he play his son in the varsity games of the SW Suburban League or should he continue "Skip" on the frosh-soph squad. The Knights sophomore netted 25 in the first game against Plainfield and then tossed in 18 in the varsity encounter. Some problem!

Editorializing today . . . predicting today . . . all sorts of the acceptable things . . . "Carve the turkey, dad" . . . The Yankees will win the World Series in 1959 . . . Iowa will win the Rose Bowl . . . Cheerio . . . ho . . .

Sandburg Opens Season Tonight

Blue Island High will test the youth of Coach Bill Adams Sandburg high school basketball team tomorrow night in Blue Island at 6:30 p.m.

There is more than a remote chance that Adams may dress far more juniors and even sophomores than Sandburg has ever seen.

Friday evening Sandburg will give a demonstration of some comparison as it meets Riverside-Brookfield at home in Orland Park. Argo, defeated by Bremen, lost to Riverside-Brookfield by a couple points. Much might be learned on this night.

Bremen Opens Season With 61-49 Win

Professionals may shoot and make fifty per cent of their shots, but when high school basketball players shoot and make 10 of their first 12 shots from the floor—it is something more than amazing. It is really uncanny for a season's opener. That is just what the Bremen Braves did—this they had to do in keeping close to a hard scrapping Argo team. Bremen defeated Argo in the lid-lifter, 61-49.

Things changed later, but the memory of that beginning is good for a coach to remember on the cold night of defeat.

Coach Brown, Bremen mentor, mumbled, "Ragged... ragged... ragged." However, Brown made the comment smilingly. "It is pleasant to win on the nights that we are learning," finished the coach.

Certainly, Bremen was ragged. Yet, there were times, when the James Mifflin—James Mannaoni combo looked very polished for the first night. Mannaoni was quick and effective on a driving jump and hook-shot. Mifflin, changing the usual, fed the smaller teammate who led the scoring for Bremen.

Inexperience was most evident in the poor job of rebounding demonstrated by the Braves. Bremen did not have a height advantage, but, as usually was the case in the past, were not at a disadvantage. Argo's Milt Parker continually cleared the boards almost unmolested. Bremen must improve here. Shooting—at least—in the first half was exciting—to say the least. At half-time with the score knotted at 29-29, the Braves had connected on 9 of 14 shots—high percentage. Shooting for the night was 17 baskets in 34 attempts. .500—excellent. The weakness in rebounding was indicated by the fact that Argo had as many shots from the field in three quarters as Bremen did in the entire game. Should the accuracy fall—the score would definitely change.

The Braves continued this shooting in the foul department. Here the percentage was nearly 70. The team scored on 27 of 42 attempts.

Mifflin—Mannaoni were good for more than half the Redmen's points. Each man tossed in 16 points. Mifflin scored three fielders and 10 fouls for his total and Mannaoni canned 7 field shots and made good on two charity efforts. Bob Rodgers, starting forward, had 9 points in the first period and a half, but was removed because of personal fouls against him. Jerome Randel made 13 for the night. Brown's top four men scored well. Bill Hoffman played a steady game at the other guard.

The Braves young men made short work of Argo's youngsters, 50-24. At the conclusion of the third period it was 40-14. Much can be expected from these fellows in the next year. Two of these fellows looked extremely good for a frosh-soph team. John Ragsdale of Tinley Park was nothing short of tremendous on a side shot which helped him to high scoring honors for the night with 17 points.

Saturday night Bremen goes against Thornton Fractional for the year's second test. This contest will also take place at Midlothian—beginning at 6:45 p.m.

Fractional should give much more competition than Argo did last Saturday night.

Knights Split With Plainfield; Skip Kruzick Nets 44 Points

Coach Joe Kruzick wore a more pleasant expression than expected for the season's opener. Kruzick's team was beaten in the last 30 seconds, but he commented, "We played a much better game than I ever expected and actually, I'm almost satisfied."

Another pleasant experience for father Kruzick was the fine play of his son Skip. Skip netted 26 points in the frosh-soph encounter and 18 in the varsity game. It was quite a night for the debut for father and son.

The Knights showed much more than expected and with a young team will continue to give the Mokena, New Lenox fans some better basketball.

With just 30 seconds left in the games—things looked rather good for an opening victory on a foreign floor. Lincoln-Way held the ball and led 59-58. Then disaster struck. Plainfield stole the ball and made the basket to take the lead, 60-59. Again the Knights failed and the Plainsmen netted a last second pot-shot.

In the second quarter of the contest each team scored three baskets and six fouls apiece as they battled to a half-time tie of 31-31.

Larry Iwema, L-W forward, netted the most points for the evening performance, with a total of 22. He caged 9 field goals and 4 free tosses. Iwema and Kruzick scored over two-thirds of Lincoln-Way points.

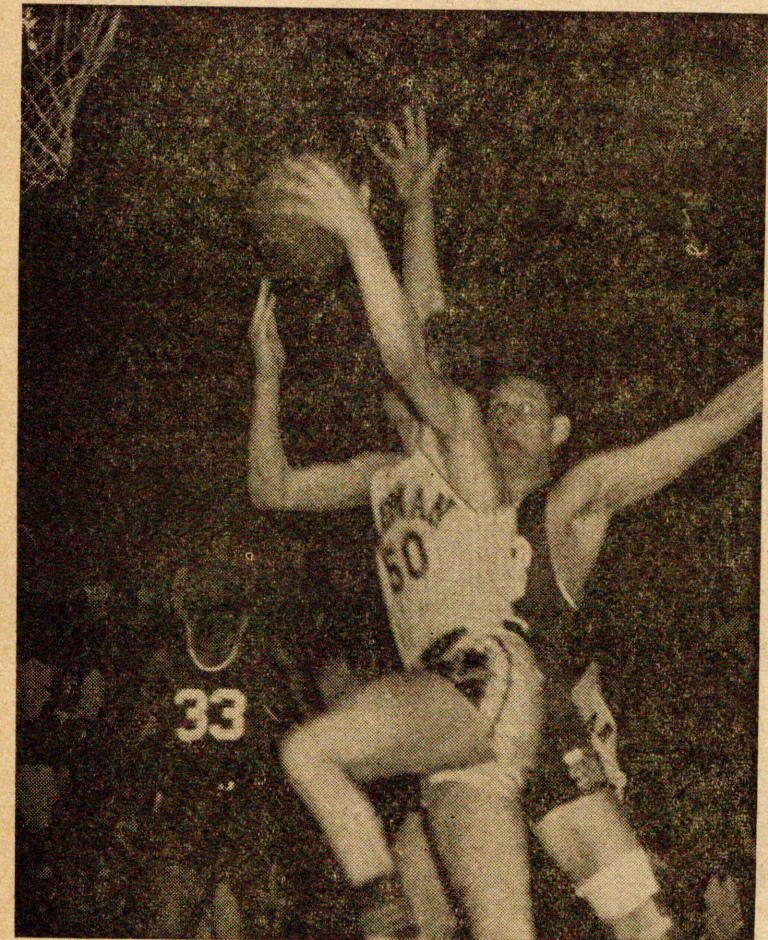

Kruzick's sophomores on the younger squad lived up to his predictions as they handily disposed of the Plainfield aggregate, 52-36. At full strength, the L-W frosh-soph built up a 31-31 half-time lead. Substitutes were then the mark of the day. Lichtenwalter, Cramer, and Kruzick accounted for 42 of the 52 points. Duane Warning is out with an injured foot.

Tinley Grade Basketeers Open Season With Loss to Blue Island

The Tinley Park Central school opened the 1958-59 basketball season with two heart-breaking defeats. Blue Island grade school defeated the Tinley Parkers by scores of, 20-18, and, 23-18, respectively.

In the opening contest Coach Bill Kosteck's charges couldn't seem to get started as Blue Island opened up a lead of, 7-5, in the first quarter and then increased the margin to, 14-9, by the half. The Tornados fought back, but didn't quite have enough to defeat the Blue Island team.

The Central school had a definite height advantage; it wasn't utilized and Blue Island got away about 30 per cent more shots than the local team. Coach Kosteck was very disappointed with the play of his tall men. "They were not moving like they should. Never should have lost," lamented the Tornado coach. Better things may be in store with more experience.

Wehr and Roy Fowler, both guards, did the bulk of the scoring with 6 and 5 points respectively. Collier, also, had 5 points for the Central lightweight team.

The second game was almost a repeat performance. Blue Island pulled away fast to open up a quick lead of, 9-3. They increased the lead to, 11-3, at the start of the second quarter. Then the Central heavyweights came to life. Accurate foul shooting by Rich Behrens helped the Tornados get back into the contest and the half-time score showed Blue Island 11—Tinley Park Central 8.

Both teams fought on rather even terms the remainder of the game, but Tinley wasn't able to muster the strength to overcome the small advantage Blue Island enjoyed. Again inexperience proved a heavy liability for Ken Webster's lads.

Rich Behrens and Frank Carlson were top scorers for Tinley Park with 5 points apiece. Behrens scored all his points from the free throw lane. Heineman of Blue Island was the leading scorer for the contest with 11 total points.

Thanksgiving

The word thanksgiving really explains itself.

When written with a capital T it specifically applies to Thanksgiving Day, observed in the United States and Canada.

Altho it is primarily a day on which most people follow the injunction of a comparatively popular son and count their blessings with proper appreciation of their good fortune. It is also a great family day, a day given over to feasting and visiting.

Those of us who live in this nation have a lot to be thankful for—we are not at war; our economy is standing up very well; our standards of living continue on the up-side; our health, as a people, continues to improve; there is more tolerance, less bigotry; we have a most wonderful form of government in which the dignity of the individual as well as his freedom is preserved; we have the right to attend and follow the teaching of the church of our choice; we have the right to express our thots and opinions.

We really have a lot of things to be thankful for in this year of 1958. We do a lot of griping but compared to the lot of peoples in other parts of the world we have it very nice indeed.

But we shouldn't become complacent. Complacency has taken a heavy toll of nations over the centuries and it could happen to us and if it did, Thanksgiving would become an empty word.

and religious controversy as they have heartburn.

Pumpkin pie was restricted to the peagee at one time. Apparently it was held to be much too good for the common people. An Act of Parliament passed in England in 1433 banned the eating of pumpkin pie by anyone under the rank of baron.

Before that anyone with the price could purchase pumpkin pies from street vendors. Some were a bit on the dry side apparently because it is said that some of the purchasers would jam a finger deep into the filling and pour some sweet juice in the opening.

From this violation of Emily Post's teachings came the expression "having a finger in the pie." Jack Horner, you will recall, used plums and thumbs.

Mince pies were also quite a dish but when colonial bakers came out with mince pies that had a crust shaped like a manger, the Puritans contended this smacked of the Church of England and Rome and not only did they put the quietus on mince pies but they also finished off Christmas.

I think that all of us, however, are glad that both Christmas and mince pies have survived and that one doesn't need to be even a simple knight in order to partake of a pumpkin pie.

All you need to be is a person with a digestion that can handle spices.

Letters to the Editor

DEFENDS POLICE

Sir:

In answer to the Provoked Citizen:

In the first place a person should get all the facts, before they write a letter condemning a person. They should also have enough nerve to sign their name.

It seems to me that the provoked citizen should remember the Golden Rule.

(Do unto others as you would have others do unto you.)

Lucile Kennedy

(Editor's note: Another letter, taking exception to the criticism directed against police by a "Provoked Citizen" was received but was not published because it was unsigned and a letter is frequently published under a nom de plume but it must be signed by the writer. If "Provoked Citizen" who is provoked by a "provoked citizen" sends in his or her name we will be glad to publish the letter.)

THE TINLEY SEWER

This letter is written with regards to the proposed referendum coming up in Tinley Park to provide a sanitary sewer system. In the October 23, 1958 issue of the Tinley Park Times it was stated that "according to President Elmer Knudsen, a public relations program to advise citizens on cost and the method to be used in financing the project will be started immediately". Since October 23rd very little has been explained about this extremely important issue. I hope that this letter will at least start a flow of information from the president and council so that everyone in Tinley Park, those who will have to pay for this system, will know just how it effects them.

To grow and prosper, Tinley Park must attract light industry and interest families, mainly young families, into permanently settling in our village. However, before this can be accomplished the village must be able to provide the following facilities:

1. A complete sanitary sewer system connected with the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Chicago.

2. A new and larger water supply system.

3. A more extensive storm sewer system.

The proposed referendum covers the first two issues and definitely the most pressing issues. As now proposed the method of financing would be to sell bonds which will be redeemed by an increased real estate tax rate. The increased tax rate would have to be applied to ALL the taxable property in Tinley Park. However all of the property in Tinley Park will not benefit from the proposed sewer system. More than 400 homes are now being built or proposed in the Sundale Hills subdivision, and this will mean a population increase of more than 1400 people. A new subdivision is also being started on the southwest side of town. The important point is that all of these homes now have sanitary sewers that have been paid for by their owners. What the proposed referendum would actually accomplish would be to make all of the owners of the above two subdivisions pay for the installation of sewers for the rest of the village.

In the American way of life everyone should pay their fair share for an improvement. Why should the people who buy homes in the above mentioned subdivision be forced to pay for sewers in other parts of Tinley Park?

This letter was written not just to criticize the proposed referendum but to criticize the method of financing. I think a revised method of financing should be considered, a method in which everyone will carry their share of the load.

This method is as follows:

1. A bond issue to be supported by an increase in the real estate tax rate for the whole village for only that portion of the improvement that benefits the whole village. This would be for that connecting and main sewer lines necessary to connect the Chicago Sanitary District and for the new water tank.

2. A special assessment for those portions of the village that at present do not have sanitary sewers. This assessment would be proportioned in ratio to the amount of benefits each property owner receives. This portion would consist mainly of the cost of lateral sewers down streets not presently served by sanitary sewers.

I believe that if the above revised method of financing is approved the entire village of Tinley Park will benefit and no one will pay more than they actually receive in benefits.

Very truly yours,
Frank P. Moolin, Jr.

WE ARE SORRY!

Reiter Home Damaged by Fire Caused by Overheated Furnace

By ELIZABETH B. ANDERSON
Lockport 886W2

Fire caused by an overheated furnace in the basement of the Glenn Reiter home last Tuesday noon, was confined mostly to the basement, with water and smoke damage to the first floor. The building, located at 159th and Parker rd. is a two-story frame farm house which is an old landmark, and has been in the Reiter family for many years.

Lockport, N.W. Homer and Ridgewood fire departments responded to a call for help and were able to confine the flames to the basement. Two firemen were overcome by smoke and were treated by the inhalator squad. The damage was estimated between $2000 and $4000.

Thanksgiving Guests
Mr. and Mrs. Owen Ott and family of 159th st. and Mrs. George Ott of Lockport will go to Blue Island to the Frank Hartman Jr. home for the Feast Day.

The Jerome Paddocks, will have as guests, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Milton, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Storm and Mrs. F. J. Paddock of here and Mrs. George Milton Jr. and son George of Plainfield.

The Bruce Andersons will entertain the George Welter family, which includes Mr. and Mrs. Owen Storm of Maple rd., Mr. and Mrs. George Welter, Mr. and Mrs. George Ballew, Ronnie and Doug Ziesemer, of Bell rd. and Maj. and Mrs. Fred Thatcher and children of Ohio.

Relatives here have received invitations to the wedding of Reed L. Burch and Jean Elinore Forsberg, to take place Saturday, Dec. 13, at the Plymouth Congregational Chapel in Seattle, Wash.

Sunday, Dec. 7, will be the regular annual meeting of Homer church. A sack lunch wanted it to appear over his own name, which is John J. Murphy, of 16825 Forest View, Tinley Park. The name is here by given, that the record may be kept straight.)

will be eaten directly following the morning service, after which the business and reports of the year will be attended to. A good attendance is desired as this is the year's most important meeting.

Rev. Hanson reports a collection of nearly $70 in grain and money for the CROP program.

The Wayside Workers circle of King's Daughters and friends will hold their Christmas meeting at the Homer church on Thursday, Dec. 4, beginning promptly at noon. A luncheon, in charge of Mrs. George Burcham and Mrs. Ira Anderson, will begin the festivities. Following will be an appropriate Christmas program, a short business session and, in place of a gift exchange, an offering for the Indian work of the Order will be taken.

Anyone inclined to empty rubbish on the highways of Homer would do well to take heed to the story of William Bates of Lemont who was arrested last week by Officer Larry Pankow for dumping tin cans, bottles and garbage on the roadside on 139th st. After pleading guilty to the charge, the offender was fined $25 and costs and ordered to remove same to a city dump. Bates was warned that in case of a second offense, he would be required to spend a week with the road crew cleaning up trash.

David Michael Angus, three-week old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Angus, died Saturday, Nov. 15, at their home on Gougar rd. Funeral rites were held Monday at the Goodale Funeral home with Rev. George Moulthrop officiating. Besides his parents, he leaves two sisters, Patricia and LaDonna, and his grandparents, the Stanley Anguses, all of Gougar rd.

Mr. and Mrs. James Weeks are the parents of a son, born Nov. 16 at Silver Cross hospital. Mrs. Weeks is the former Gloria Reiter.

A son, who has been named Gregory Ralph, was born Nov. 13, in a Danville hospital, to Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Stone. The baby's mother is the former Jean Rowley, daughter of the Elmer Rowleys of Lockport, and he is the tenth great-grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Rowley of Bruce rd., Homer.

Mrs. Reed Burch has returned from Silver Cross hospital where she spent Thursday for X-rays and general check-up.

Mrs. Roy Hanson was a Chicago shopper Wednesday. Many Homer people attended the Junior class play at

Death Lurks in All Homes to Trap Careless

The time—July or December. The place—the home. Or, more specifically, the bedroom. The victim—someone 65 years of age or older.

The pattern is usually pretty much the same:

Yes, that's usually the story of home deaths from falls, which take about 14,000 lives annually and rank second only to traffic as an accidental killer.

National Safety Council statistics show that about 3 out of 4 persons killed in falls are 65 or older, and that more than 3 out of 4 falls occur in the home. More falls occur in July and December than any other time of the year.

Of the fatal falls occurring inside the house, more than half happen in the bedroom. Next most dangerous spots? The living dining room, kitchen, stairs and bathroom, in that order.

Why is the bedroom such a boobytrap?

For many reasons, the Council says. One of the most important, of course, is the time spent there by young children and older people, some of them infirm or ill. Also, bedrooms are most often used during dark hours, and lighting isn't always what it should be.

Another reason people fall so often in bedrooms is because of the throw rug—a lethal weapon if unanchored.

"The ideal spot for a throw rug is right beside the bed—if you want an accident," the Council says.

How to remove the hazard? "Sew fruit jar rings on the underside of the rug or use tape you can buy for the purpose."

A handy bed lamp will help cut down on the night time toll from falls, too, the Council advises.

Other tips: Light stairs and steps. Keep them uncluttered.

2. Fasten window screens securely. Use guards on windows with low ledges.

3. Use a nonslip rubber mat on the bottom of your bathtub or shower. Tubs or showers are slippery, and hard! Also, provide a vertical grab bar on the wall.

4. Keep ladders repaired. Place them and use them properly. Avoid reaching and makeshift substitutes. Sit in chairs—don't climb on them, the Council says.

MAURICE P. ANGLAND

Chicago metropolitan newspapers have announced that a merger between Material Service Corp. of Chicago and General Dynamics Corp. is being actively considered. The merger is to be on the basis of an exchange of stock rather than a cash purchase of one by the other.

The reasons for mergers vary somewhat, but usually they are made for reasons of diversification of company's activities or because one sales and managerial staff can handle management and sales of the combined firms and produce a net profit greater than the combined pre-merger net profits of the two firms.

Sometimes mergers are made in an industry between two weak earners in a field with chronic over-production as certain aspects of the textile field. Some of these are irreversibly called "umbrella mergers" to get both firms out of the rain.

Mergers and stock splits are not always beneficial and each must be studied on its merits. Both are often misunderstood. A stock split can be to increase share total and be something like getting two five dollar bills for a ten dollar bill.

Material Service-General Dynamics merger is a little unusual as the products of the principals are so very widely divergent.

General Dynamics operates thru seven units. Convair, the largest is developing a nuclear powered bomber and an anti-submarine seaplane. Military orders are held for several types of jet planes. This unit also has military orders for its missiles—Atlas, Thor, and Tartar. Canadianair, Ltd. and the Stromberg-Carlson units are about the same size. Electric Boat division is country's largest producer of submarines and Liquid Carbonic is a large producer of carbon dioxide and other gases.

General Dynamics is, therefore, heavily dependent on defense orders. Its sales can and do show wide swings up and down. Increased sales have been heavily influenced by mergers since 1952 when sales started a sharp swing upward.

By the very nature of the business, political connections are most helpful. President of the company is Frank Pace, a man who has been most successful in Democratic party circles. At 37 years of age he was the youngest secretary of the army in history. A weakness of such situations is that political connections are often very personal and death or disability can change the status quo more suddenly than normal in the usual commercial activity.

Material Service Corp. is a firm doing business mainly in sand, gravel, lime and cement and concrete products. Its activities are mainly centered in the general Chicago area.

Company was founded by Henry Crown of Chicago. Usually such business is dependent on the ability of the firm's management in convincing contractors and builders, that their particular firm is most desirable as a source of sand, gravel, cement, etc.

Due to the large amount of city, state and government projects, political connections are very valuable. Mr. Crown's firm has been reputed to be very well connected in Democratic circles in Chicago and nationally.

Like others, however, he must get his estate in order. The firm is reputedly valued at about $120 million with his family and himself holding 90 per cent of the stock. Inheritance taxes are a cash charge. Material Service stock has practically no public market. Even if Mr. Crown wanted to diversify his holdings, sale of any substantial block of this stock would be difficult and very expensive. The public generally does not readily buy shares in this type industry due to its vagaries.

Merging with General Dynamics would give him stock that has a ready market. This stock might be sold later only with "capital gains" tax.

Also his holdings of General Dynamics will be so large that

Lincoln-Way High Gets Big Spread in U.S. School Publication

The U.S. Department of Education recently released a publication on "School Sites, Selection, Development, and Utilization." Featured in this booklet were three full page pictures and one somewhat smaller, showing how the 70 acre campus at L-W was being used.

One of these pictures showed four girls on the archery range as a part of their outdoor girls' physical education program. Another large picture showed the beautiful picnic grounds and woods directly behind the school. Eight former senior girls were preparing a camp fire. Camping has been included in the girls' program during the past three years.

On another page in the book, the L-W Future Farmers' association was honored for its farming activities in the school's extra acreage. Two boys were storing corn in the school's crib, located just behind the farm shop. This activity is one of the many operated and managed by the local chapter of the F.F.A.

The final picture showed the entire site development plan, illustrating a complete plan for the entire site, and making provisions for future use.

This publication was prepared by James L. Taylor, specialists on planning school buildings, and employed by the U. S. Department of Education. The purpose of this study is to assist school boards, planners, and designers in the selection and development of more adequate and functional school grounds.

Another feature pointed out in the book, regarding Lincoln-Way, was the site development at such a low cost. Much of this work was done by the board members, maintenance and local citizens, contributing their time and knowledge. Each year some additional site development would be undertaken by these groups to help the total educational programs in the school and community.

Anyone desiring a copy of this booklet may send 75 cents to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C. and ask for "School Sites," special publication No. 7.

Seeks Aid For Americans in Chinese Prisons

Members of the American Legion Auxiliary, Orland Park unit 528 are joining in the crusade to effect the release of four Americans still in prisons in Red China. They appeal to others to do the same.

This may be done by sending cards or gifts to these men, to let them know they have not been forgotten by fellow Americans. By so doing it may hasten the date of their release.

At the Auxiliary meeting Nov. 14, Mrs. Adele Cooper read a newspaper clipping by Mary Ann Ross, making a plea for people to send Christmas cards and gifts to American prisoners held in Red China cells. They are Jack Downey, Hugh F. Redmond, Richard Feeteau and Robert McCann.

It costs 25 cents for an air mail stamp to China. Gifts or cards should bear the address—Chinese Red Cross, Peiping, China.

Miss Ross has been working on Father Rigney's Freedom Crusade to try and secure release of the 13 American prisoners held in Red China. Nine have been released so far, leaving the above four boys still in prison.

She had collected 40,477 signatures and mailed them to Mao Tse-tung in Peiping, China appealing for their release.

Trading Old Homes in on New Coming Trend, Builders are Told

"The subject of trade-in housing should be investigated thoroughly by all home builders and real estate brokers," stated Martin H. Braun, president of the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland. Mr. Braun is one of the developers of the new homes at the recent meeting we had as our guest speaker one of the most successful trade-in people in the country, Gordon Williamson of Detroit. Mr. Braun continued "and judging by the attendance, the attention accorded the speaker, and the caliber of the questions asked, there is a large and serious interest in blasting the logjam that occurs when the owner of one house sets out to upgrade his living by buying another."

"I believe that we may be on the threshold of a new era of cooperation between members of the real estate boards and our Home Builders Association of Chicagoland," Braun went on, "so long as we keep our eyes on the goal of cooperating to help Chicagoland families with their housing needs, we are sure to work out a trade-in system that is naturally agreeable. Together, the builder and broker groups can provide home-owning families with more service than can be had by dealing separately."

Williamson started with one salesman in 1940 and now has over 50 in his organization. He has found it best to operate within a seven-mile circle around his office. The basis of doing trade-in business, he stated, was that first the buyer get interested in the features of the new home. After that follows a realistic appraisal of the home to be traded in. The buyer then is shown the expenses to be incurred in selling his old home, and the net equity applicable toward the purchase of the new home.

An integral part of the plan, Braun pointed out, was that within a specified reasonable time, say 90 days, either the home is sold or the trade-in agency takes it over at the appraised price minus expenses. While it is possible for an office to lose a few dollars on one home, at the end of the year a well-run trade-in business shows a fair profit in additional sales.

Another aspect on which Builder-Architect Braun and Realtor Williamson agreed was that the selling of trade-in homes opens another door for experienced remodelers and home improvement contractors. A reputable remodeling contractor would find a steady source of income by working with a trade-in office to correct defects and make repairs that so frequently are "put off" by the average home owner. This type of work is not the function of a new home builder or a real estate broker; but it must be done.

Either a builder or a broker might offer a trade-in plan, but the major and most promising interest is in the cooperation of brokers and builders.

Representatives of the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland and the Chicago Real Estate Board have held an exploratory meeting to determine areas of mutual interest, and trade-ins rank high on the list. There will be more meetings in the future to discuss fees, services, responsibilities.

"While many in the industry can benefit from a standardized trade-in system," Braun mentioned, "in the end it is the public who will benefit because it means less time, trouble, and expense for the average family when they need and desire to 'move up'."

Court Issues Warrant In Case Involving Trailer

(CNS)—A warrant for the arrest of Donald Ruis, charged with maintaining a house trailer at 13109 S. Central ave., Worth township, without a county permit, has been issued by Acting County Judge Charles I. Fleming. Ruis failed to appear in County court after being issued a summons by sheriff's deputies, according to Assistant State's Attorney Richard Houpt.

The complaint, filed by State's Attorney Adamowski, also charges that Ruis failed to provide water supply and sewage disposal facilities for the trailer in violation of the zoning ordinance.

A Dip into Past of Entertainment

By JOHN W. ALLEN
(So. Ill. Univ.)

No one is a juvenile who remembers seeing some lone showman plodding down a dusty roadway with a dejected and footsore bear or a performing dog on leash. Instead of a bear or dog, the animal companion might have been a monkey or an educated pony. The musical part of the show — and no show could be considered complete without music — generally consisted of a violin, a flute or a hand organ. Sometimes the showman also sang, after a fashion.

These wandering showmen and their animal companions have long been gone from southern Illinois. Along with them went the Punch and Judy shows, medicine shows, and an occasional wagon show.

The one-man animal show followed closely on the frontier and came early. The man, part of the show "troupe", is generally remembered as a foreigner. He and his supporting cast and props are recalled as dirty, neglected, and apparently much the worse for wear.

Appearing at any place where there was opportunity to gather a crowd, the showman would begin his scrapings on the violin accompanied by correspondingly rasping singing. Having attracted a few customers, the show would begin. With proper tempo and some "hups" and "hos," this bear or dog would be ready to go into his act. The bear, with the showman still holding the leash, would do a shuffling, spiritless dance. The dog would jump over a cane, through a hoop, roll over, stand on its hind feet, play dead, bark at command, and do other simple acts.

When the act was completed, the hat was passed or the crowd was asked to pitch coins in a circle. Sometimes the monkey when it was part of the show would, with the typical appearance of sadness common to them pass about the crowd holding a tin cup into which those attending were asked to place coins. Often the soliciting monkey had been trained to take each coin as it was given from the cup and place it in the pocket of the vest it wore. The bear, when it was not muzzled, was taught to sit on its haunches and catch any bits of food that might be tossed to it.

At one performance observed, the monkey's act took on a strange turn when a dog, apparently with the owner's approval, harassed the monkey until it took refuge on top of the hand organ. The dog's owner, apparently enjoying it all, paid no heed to the showman's request to curb the dog. The monkey's owner accordingly gave the monkey a stick about a foot long and as hefty as the monkey could well handle. At the next disrupting approach of the dog, the showman gave the monkey a push. It sprang upon the surprised dog's back and, holding on with its three free hands, began to hobnob the dog over the head. No one had to say "Get for home Bruno!" With a string of sharp yelps, the dog made the first hundred yards in that direction in the proverbial "nothing flat".

Punch and Judy shows also were common. In these the performers were puppets fitted on the hands of the performers. These puppets would appear above the stage below the level of which the performers were hidden. Skillfully operated by the showman and accompanied by animated dialogue in a "Donald Duck" tone of voice, they invariably amused the audience.

Another type of show, one that lingered until a later time than those already mentioned, was the medicine show. This show usually had a larger troupe, often having as many as a half dozen members.

Such shows sometimes attracted interesting performers. For instance, James Whitcome Riley, the beloved Hoosier poet, toured with such a show. He wrote their skits and adapted their plays as well as picking the banjo and singing. This was after he had ended his career as a blind sign painter.

As in the Punch and Judy shows, a spell binding salesman would mount the rostrum after each number or act and sell some wonderful remedy, one that would cure all the ills of any human from dandruff and falling hair thru stomach disorders and lumbago to athlete's foot, or "your dollar back after three days use". Most of the stands were only for two day periods.

Another favorite produce for sale at these shows was a pungent smelling liniment, that likewise was guaranteed "to cure toothache, headache, rheumatism, and aching joints." Again it carried a promise of "your money back guaranteed". The last medicine show was on Wall Street in Carbondale in 1940.

All those shows were amusing. They provided much of our out-of-the-community entertainment. Does anyone know where we can get a hand organ and a trained bear?

Cyprus — A Center of Gravity in Middle East Crisis

AMERICAN MARINES are on the beaches of the Biblical lands. Consequently, the island of Cyprus where Paul and Barnabas embarked on their journey to spread Christianity to the West is now a kingpin in the defense of the democratic world against Communism.

There are two communities on Cyprus—Turks and Greeks—and Greek demands for the annexation of the Island have thrown them into strife, jeopardizing the position of the West.

The conflicting claims are as follows: the Greeks assert that since they are in the majority, the Island should be joined to Greece. The Turks state that the Island was Turkish for 350 years and has never been Greek. Moreover, it is 600 miles from Greece but only 40 from Turkey, and is an extension of the Turkish coastline guarding Turkey's life-line with the West. In addition, Turks own 40% of the land, and are equally entitled to self-determination.

At this critical juncture in the Middle East, it would appear that the best solution of these divergent claims is the partitioning of the Island between Greeks and Turks, since self-determination on which opposing claims are essentially based would be met in full for both parties.

SOMETIMES IT PAYS

Lexington, S. C., DISPATCH-NEWS: "You look tired, dear," the wife greeted her husband. "Did you have a bad day at the office?"

"I'll say I did," he answered. "I took one of those aptitude tests and boy, oh boy, it's a good thing I own the company."

This TOO is Texas Eastern ...

Delivering over 500 billion cubic feet of natural gas yearly

That's the annual rate at which Texas Eastern is delivering natural gas to its customers — companies and municipalities — that supply millions of homes and thousands of factories in a dozen or more Midwestern, Appalachian and Eastern Seaboard states.

In just 11 years, average daily deliveries have increased more than tenfold.

In early 1947, a day's delivery was only about 138 million cubic feet of gas. Today, the 6000-mile Texas Eastern natural gas pipeline network can deliver more than 1.7 billion cubic feet of gas daily.

And the demand is growing — understandably.

More and more home owners are switching to clean, economical natural gas for heating, cooking and air conditioning. Industry is steadily finding new uses for this highly adaptable fuel. The demand is outstripping all expectations. Now a new customer — the petrochemical industry — is calling for more and more natural gas. Here natural gas is used as a raw material in manufacturing a fantastically-varied assortment of home and commercial products.

In every direction, the outlook for this once-wasted natural resource grows steadily brighter.

A gift of $300 to the Country Club Hills school for the purchase of library, science and audio-visual materials, was made to Supt. Zenon Sykuta by the PTA unit at its meeting last Thursday in the Central school.

This action was taken at the business session which preceded a talk on safety and the showing of a traffic safety film, "Invisible Guardian," by Corp. John P. Fleming, Dist. 4, Illinois State Police. Fleming is a member of the state police traffic safety section. He was introduced by Margaret Davis, program chairman.

The film shows how a child is protected from danger at home but eventually he must leave the close confines to which it has been accustomed and it is then, Fleming pointed out, that the learning of safety rules is paramount. Freedom is encouraged but freedom without caution, he added, is often disastrous.

Protection in the form of street signs, traffic signals and guarded street crossings is important but even more so, the corporal said, is the education of the youngster in the ways of safety.

In the discussion period, Corporal Fleming made several suggestions for improving safety. There are many agencies to draw upon for support, the Cook county highway department (shoulder widening etc.), or the state division of highways. These agencies should be contacted by either the city officials or the school board. He also urged the parents to use intelligence in using the family car to pick up the children. Many times children, filled with the wild abandon of the end of the school day, may run directly into the path of an auto. Children, especially in this type of area, should be trained to walk opposing traffic as well as far off the roadway as possible. Parents should check up on the school bus and pass any comments or complaints on to the safety committee. Of maximum importance is the training NOT to hitchhike or accept rides from strangers.

Corp. Fleming advocates the "buddy system," having children walk in twos or threes when the distance to the school is great. He informed the members that the Chicago Motor club has warning materials and should be checked for assistance. The state will paint "slow school" on the street, however, speed limits are difficult to change. Corp. Fleming felt that white lines forming crosswalks on Country Club Hills streets would be very helpful in keeping the children from running across the streets haphazardly.

At the business session it was announced that William Ferguson is the new chairman of the Ways and Means committee. Chairmen are still needed for the census and health committees.

PTA calendars, which also list all school holidays and PTA meetings are on sale at the Baker street school.

Members of the board of education of School District 160 as well as Supt. Sykuta, wish to acknowledge the receipt of a check for $200 which was presented to the PTA by J. E. Merrion for the purchase of playground equipment. This equipment will be placed on the site of the new school when it is finished.

Woman's Club

The Woman's Club of Country Club Hills will hold its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday evening, Dec. 3, in the central school, 184th and Central ave., at 8:00 p.m.

The speaker will be "James" of Park Forest who will present and explain special floral arrangements and decorations for Christmas. How to "do it yourself" will also be explained.

This is the meeting at which officers are to be elected. Only those who have paid their dues will be eligible to vote and only those who have been members since October will be eligible for office.

Reservations may still be made for the Christmas dinner party to be held at Valleyview Farms restaurant on Dec. 11 by calling Delores Kuznicki, SY 9-5433.

The Women's club, which sponsored the Trick or Treat candy sale for the benefit of the Brain Research Foundation, wishes to thank the Teen Agers for their very wonderful and successful efforts. The Teen Agers took on this huge task as a completely charitable work with not one cent of benefit for their own club expected. Their energy, selflessness and graciousness shown are a credit to the entire community. This was their first community effort and over $170 was raised.

Boy Scouts

Boy Scout Troop 286 of Country Club Hills had its Charter review on Nov. 18 at the William Lindecker residence. Fifteen local Scout leaders and committeemen were present, and the review was conducted by Carl Timmerman, acting as representative of the Pokagon Trails Council. He was assisted by Troop Committee Chairman Albert Katz, Neighborhood Commissioner Wesley Zimmerman, and Larry Simon, President of the Civic Association, the sponsoring institution.

The troop registered 18 adults and 30 boys for the new charter year.

William Korrer is the new Scout Master, replacing Fred Wilson, who asked that the change be made due to a change in his work. Mr. Wilson will remain as an assistant scout master, along with Stuart Heidebreder.

A roster of the local scout leaders and their positions are: neighborhood commissioner, Wesley Zimmerman; institutional representative, Carl Timmerman and the scout master, and his assistants.

Members of the troop committee are: Chairman, Albert Katz; secretary, Cole Keys; treasurer, Dell Forsgren; outdoorsman, Charles Smith; special events chairman, Dan Kelley; transportation, Robert Otto; funds procurement, Ray Bergmann; charts and records, Nick Polito; publicity, Ed Coultas; advancement, William Marquardsen; health and safety, John Lind and membership, William Lindecker. The roster also shows School Supt. Sykuta and Robert Adler as members-at-large.

Ray Bergmann was congratulated on the work of his committee in doubling the quota of $175 set up by the council in their recent fund drive. Over $350 was collected and turned over to the council for their use in maintaining campsites and carrying on the work of Scouting in this area.

Girl Scouts

All Brownies and Girl Scouts in the community were invited to take part in the Flossmoor neighborhood play day on Saturday, Nov. 22 in Thorn Creek Woods near Thornton.

The girls had a good time from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. hiking, singing, playing games and working with crafts.

United Christian Church
A Thanksgiving service for the entire community will be held on Thanksgiving Day at 10 a.m. in the Thomas Lane school. The Junior Christian Fellowship will sing a special number. Offerings given on this day will go toward the support of the missionary work.

The church executive committee will meet at the parsonage on Dec. 3.

The final report on the building fund campaign will be given at the worship service on Nov. 30. Envelopes will begin with the first Sunday in December and will run for a 52 week period. The campaign executive committee wishes to thank everyone who worked so willingly and also for the fine response experienced thus far.

This cast consisted of Pam Plus, David Baker, Kay Van Rheeden, Gail Huss, Sharon Irby, Jackie Zitter, James Lankin, and Lowell Noodwang.

"Romany Chi" was the title of the third play presented by the Footlighters, or the Junior Senior Dramatics club, under the capable leadership of their sponsor, Mrs. Elizabeth Elliott. The cast of this play consisted of Norma Heidrick, Douglas Williams, Christine Duffy, Charles Hunter, and John Flynn.

All three of the dramatic clubs express their gratitude to everyone who helped in any way toward the production of these plays, and hoped that the sock hop Saturday night was enjoyed by all of them.

The Footlighters club is also making plans to attend the regional meeting of the Thespians at Wheaton on Dec. 6.

Plans are also being made by this group for the annual Christmas Play, Dec. 19.

COLLEGE NIGHT

Annual college night at Lincoln-Way was observed Nov.

AMVETS RUSTIC CHAPEL PROJECT . . . Designed to serve the veterans at the Danville V. A. hospital this outside chapel will cost approximately $10,000 and the Fourth District Council of Amvets which is sponsoring the project is asking all posts to aid in the fund raising.

The council has $3,000 on hand so another $7,000 is needed. Mokena post is planning to give a minstrel in April and half of the proceeds from ticket sales will go to the chapel fund, it was announced.

Any contributions are welcome, from individuals, clubs or other veterans' organizations. A number of such organizations have made donations, it was reported. The project has the approval of the Veterans' administration.

The indoor chapels at the hospital are uncomfortably hot in the summer months, it was explained and attendance would be greatly increased if the facilities were available out of doors.

The towns and cities in the Fourth District are Mokena, Beecher, Crete, Kankakee, Urbana, Champaign, Fisher, Pottam, Danville and Streator.

Traditional Thanksgiving Dinner To be Served to Hospital Patients

Holiday seasons are always treated as special days of the year in Illinois state hospitals. So on Thanksgiving Day patients in these institutions will sit down to a dinner of roast turkey and all the trimmings as millions of other Americans will be doing.

At the Tinley Park State hospital the menu will consist of roast turkey, giblet dressing, mashed sweet potatoes, cranberry sauce, celery and olives, rolls and butter, pumpkin pie, coffee and milk. Tables and serving areas will be decorated in the typical Thanksgiving theme.

To prepare the meal for the 400 patients and 100 employees, will take 375 pounds of turkey, 200 pounds of potatoes, 48 pounds of cranberry sauce, five gallons of gravy and 90 p.c.

The size of the menu is set forth in a master menu, prepared by the department of Public Welfare in Springfield.

The quantity needed at the Tinley hospital is somewhat smaller than other hospitals where tens of thousands of pounds of turkey and all its trimmings is served. Manteno State hospital, for instance, with 8,000 patients and 1600 employees will serve food in equivalent quantities.

To many patients, Thanksgiving is just another mark on the calendar of endless time. In some instances, however, special occasions of this sort tend to spark anew, a long buried desire to come back in contact with the real world. Everything has its purpose in a hospital for the mentally ill, even a simple ward party.

Many patients will be alone on this day—for the reason that families have forgotten them or families just don't exist any more. The occupational and recreational ther-
